Further to the previous statement I made to the police on the 12th November 2014 I have been asked by the Police about a quote I made in the book "Smile for the camera"
I did say that I wondered if Patrick ROSS had been leant on. At the time I didn't think that, it's only afterwards when I think about it. It's a hunch.

I knew Cyril SMITH had some very influential friends who could have put pressure on Mr ROSS. On that day I spoke to him on the town hall steps he wasn't his usual self with me, it could have been he was rushing off to another meeting but he didn't have much time for me which was unusual for him.

Patrick ROSS was a very honest man so when he said that on the steps I wondered if he had been told what to do. Again that's just my opinion. I have no evidence to back it up.

On the 10th April 2014 I was visited at home by Alan COLLINS a solicitor from SLATER and GORDON. The firm are representing victims in Rochdale or Cambridge House.

In the course of our conversation I talked about Patrick ROSS and that I thought it had been leant on. Alan made some comments I can't remember exactly what he said but the inference I got was that Patrick ROSS wanted to do something about Cyril at the time, prosecute him.

Going back to Patrick ROSS I have been thinking about it. When I told him what I knew there were no sexual allegations, this was the first time I approached him about Cyril. I wondered if he gone and warned Cyril. I don't know if he did or not. It's just knowing Patrick ROSS'S character I just don't think he would have done nothing.

The statement has been read to me by Annette HOLLIDAY. I do not wish to alter or amend my statement and agree with the contents.
