What an extraordinary mixture Peter is!

He's now worked up because 20 Australian priests have nominated him for the Archbishopric of Melbourne, though he doesn't think he'll be offered it.

Also he has an SOS from Michael Ball, who's feeling lonely; so Peter is dashing off to Truro for a few days.

I thought Religious were supposed to know something about detachment! Still, when you see some of the detached ones perhaps it's as well that not all of them do.
