A friend told me on November 10th that there had been a newspaper report*, since the ARCHER resignation, to the effect that another prominent Tory was under investigation by the police because of his interest in small boys. As a result Peter MORRISON was being "hounded" by the press, representatives of which had recently followed him from London to Islay. MORRISON had vehemently denied to another friend of mine that there was any truth in the story.

* This is what I was told - but the press cutting does not, in fact, refer to small boys.
