

Continuation of Statement of LORD HAMILTON OF EPSOM

not uncommon to smear a colleague in the hope it might damage their reputation. ~~in the~~ DPA Barry has suggested that I took notes during this meeting, but I don't believe this was the case. I only usually took notes in order to brief the Prime Minister and she was already in the room. I don't keep any such notes from the period. I was surprised that the Prime Minister later expainted Peter Morrison as her PPS, but only because by that stage his drinking had become a real problem and I felt he was unreliable as a result.
